Home for Hope Foundation

25 August 2021

Dear Sir/Madam,

The Taking Pictures, Changing Lives Foundation partner with charities and NGOs who work with some of the most under-represented communities on earth. Our global team of photographers, filmmakers and writers use creativity as a tool to tell their stories with truth and beauty and help them deliver real change.

We have photographed for the Home for Hope Foundation early this year, documenting the distribution of lifesaving vitamins and medical care in communities suffering from intestinal worms. Intestinal worms are a cause of malnutrition in many districts across Rwanda.

Our photographs were effective on many levels. They show people that they can trust the Home for Hope Foundation and the Rwandan Ministry of Health as they see other families and children being treated. The images also raise awareness for the great need there is to support their health work and help end malnutrition in Rwanda.

Here are a selection of photos taken on this visit: <https://adobe.ly/30HuxZI>

We will continue to partner with Home for Hope Foundation as the projects they are able to support grows.

Thank you for your attention.

Yours Sincerely,

Adam Dickens
